Advancing business together

Chambers Ireland launched the 2018 Corporate Social Responsibility Awards in AIB's Bankcentre on 6th March with a panel discussion on Diversity and Inclusion in the Workplace.

2018 marks the 15th anniversary of the Awards which were established to offer the business community a chance to promote and highlight best practice CSR initiatives taking place across Ireland.

At the event, host Dil Wickremasinghe outlined her own past experiences, positive and negative, on diversity and inclusion in the workplace and facilitated a panel discussion on this topic. The panellists raised many interesting points, including how we can bridge silos in diversity, how many marginalised groups have more in common than they realise and talked about how internalised biases still affect all of us.

The applications are now open online at www.csrawards.ie

The closing date for submissions is Tuesday, 17th April.

2018 Award categories include: Excellence in Environment, Community Programmes, Workplace, Marketplace, Communication, CSR by an SME, and Diversity & Inclusion.
